

Privacy Policy

The reason for building this website:

The information on this website is designed and created for the educational purpose only and is not as a business. The content of the website was written based on sources that are available. Some articles have links to other sites which may be changeable at any time.

However, as mentioned above, this website is a part of an educational project. Therefore, all information and services may be error and inaccurate.

External sites:

This website is not responsible for neither business nor entertainment industry. So reminding your use of information and materials on this website, especially external sites; it is entirely at your own risks. You are advised to read the privacy policy of external websites that you have been through carefully.

Risk:

Remembering when you access this website, there is no guarantee of the security. So if you are asked to send any certain information, please do not do it because this is not set up and is not our purpose. If you do purchase the tickets for the Script concerts on this website, there is no profit to us at all, and it is not our responsibility either.

On the other hand, if you receive an email from this website or others that are relevant to this website, please note that it is not our policy.